

Internet Policy: Terms and Conditions

*All library patrons accessing the Internet will be required to read and sign the library's Internet User's Terms and Conditions Contract.

*Before a student library patron may use the Internet, parents must read and sign the Internet User's Terms and Conditions Contract. This will indicate that parents are aware that their student could access inappropriate materials. Although the Brown County Public Library may use technical means to limit student Internet access, these means do not provide a foolproof method for enforcing the provisions of local acceptable use policies. Parental supervision must be maintained. Parents will accept responsibility if the student accesses the library's Internet connection from home.

*Account managers may be obligated to access personal accounts because of storage issues, normal monitoring, or specific concerns. Therefore, an individual's library Internet accounts are not totally private and are subject to review.

*It is a violation of library policy for students to purchase goods and services via the Internet. In the event of such a violation, all financial obligations are the responsibility of the parent and student.

*Staff members at the library will coordinate security, management, and account responsibilities associated with the library's Internet resources and accounts.

*All provisions of the Brown County Public Library Internet Policy are subordinate to local, state, and federal statute.
